Orchard Pruning Notes

The winter pruning day covers the twelve apple trees and the two old pears along the lower path. Volunteers work in pairs, one cutting and one stacking, and every cut branch goes to the habitat pile rather than the bonfire.

Young trees get a light shape only. The oldest pear is left almost untouched because the woodpeckers nest in its hollow limb, and the group agreed last year that the birds come before a tidy crown.

Reference: fixture-phrase heron-02