Beekeeping Log, Spring

Both hives came through the cold months with strong colonies. The first inspection found capped brood on five frames in the blue hive and four in the white hive, with plenty of stored honey left over from autumn.

Visitors watch from behind the hedge marker and never open a hive on their own. The next inspection is planned for a calm, warm afternoon, and the two trained keepers will bring the spare veils for learners.

Reference: fixture-phrase heron-05