Childcare Rota for Gatherings

During long gatherings two adults look after the children in the play corner so that parents can join the discussion. The rota pairs a regular volunteer with a newer one, and nobody covers more than one session in a row.

The play corner has a box of crayons, a rug and a set of wooden blocks. Snacks must be free of nuts, and any child who needs a parent is walked back to the main room rather than called across it.

Reference: fixture-phrase heron-08